Making It Better
Gender-Transformative Health Promotion

In this innovative collection, leading thinkers in clinical medicine, sociology, epidemiology, kinesiology, education, and public policy reveal how health promotion is failing communities by failing women. Despite a longstanding consensus that social inequalities shape global patterns of illness and opportunities for health, mainstream health promotion frameworks continue to ignore gender at relational, household, community, and state levels. Exploring the ways in which gendered norms affect health and social equity for all human beings, _Making It Better_ invites us to rethink conventional approaches to health promotion and to strive for transformative initiatives and policies. Offering practical tools and evidence-based strategies for moving from gender integration to gender transformation, this anthology is required reading for policymakers, health promotion and healthcare practitioners, researchers, community developers, and social service providers.

Author Information

Lorraine Greaves
Lorraine Greaves is Senior Investigator at the BC Centre of Excellence for Women's Health.

Ann Pederson
Ann Pederson is the Director of Population Health Promotion at BC Women’s Hospital and Health Centre. For over 17 years at the British Columbia Centre of Excellence for Women's Health and is currently completing a doctorate at the University of British Columbia in sex, gender, and health promotion.

Nancy Poole
Nancy Poole is Director of Research and Knowledge Translation at the BC Centre of Excellence for Women’s Health in Vancouver.

Reviews

" _Making It Better_ breaks new ground in health promotion. It is an essential tool for researchers, policymakers, and practitioners working to improve the health of their communities. Amid dire warnings of unsustainable demands and spiraling costs in health service delivery, _Making It Better_ is a welcome voice offering a fresh health promotion approach to improving health outcomes. In addition, it is a timely exposé of product marketing and advertising, which contributes to so many of our modern-day chronic illnesses. It promises pathways to better health for women, girls, and ultimately for all." — _Kelly Banister, Chief Executive Officer, Australian Women’s Health Network_

"This book provides a refreshing and interesting look at health promotion…. It brings together the Canadian and Australian contexts, the determinants of health, and feminist theory and ideology, which makes it unique." — _Joyce Engel, Associate Professor of Nursing, Brock University_

Table of Contents

Related Books

LGBTQ People and Social Work
Brian J. O’Neill, Tracy A. Swan, Nick J. Mulé
Women’s Health, Second Edition
Pat Armstrong, Ann Pederson
Complementary, Alternative, and Traditional Medicine
Jennie M. Hornosty, Maria Costanza Torr